

An Education to Have Faith In

Christ's Greenfield Lutheran School

Nearly three decades ago, Christ's Greenfield Lutheran School opened its doors to six preschool students. These days, twenty-seven richly blessed years later, the school has blossomed into a thriving institution. Students from preschool to middle school receive a strong, Christ-centered education, with the core values of Christ, Quality, and Community at its heart.

CGLS weaves Christian beliefs and Biblical truths throughout an up-to-date curriculum, while guiding students to be aware of other perspectives and gain an understanding of God's love and acceptance of all people. Development of the whole child is essential, and the teachers and staff of CGLS realize that their roles go far beyond providing information. They strive to set examples of faith and grace, wholly devoted to creating a caring yet challenging classroom where students can receive the utmost in academic privilege. Small class sizes and a good student/teacher ratio ensure that teachers are able to connect one-on-one and provide individualized instruction while developing positive relationships with each child.

From preschool on up, CGLS adheres to only the highest quality standards of education. The Preschool is one of the first in the Phoenix metropolitan area to be accredited by the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC), and has maintained those rigorous standards for fifteen years. The curriculum enriches and inspires, providing skills for success both in school and beyond. With a modern, technologically-equipped campus and exceptional fine arts, language, and athletic programs, students are afforded opportunities to explore, discover, and develop their aptitude in many different areas. At the same time, the presence of Christ in students' everyday lives and the practice of Christian beliefs and traditions help to lay a solid spiritual foundation.

CGLS students and parents alike rave about the "home away from home" atmosphere. Even with continued growth, CGLS retains an intimate, small-school feeling in which students can be comfortable and confident. Opportunities for family involvement are plentiful, and encouraged; the entire family becomes a part of the learning process, creating a welcoming sense of cohesion and community in an environment rich with Christian values.

From preschool through middle school, from the time they walk through the door until the time they go home, CGLS students are immersed in knowledge-cultivating, spirit-empowering education – and being equipped with valuable life skills in the process. When faith is nurtured as carefully as the mind, the benefits extend to the soul.
